

WAKSMAN SOCIAL SKILLS RATING SCALE
(WSSRS - School Version)
Steven A Waksman, Ph.D.

This 21 item standardized rating scale was developed from the most important social skills identified by a large group of educators and mental health professionals. It allows you to identify children and adolescents (K-12) for social skills programs and to evaluate the effectiveness of those programs. The rating scale was normed on randomly selected students and assesses both aggressive and passive domains. The research studies documenting the rating scale's excellent reliability (alpha = .92, test-retest = .92 for aggressive domain and .69 for passive domain), and strong validity are described in the manual.
